2023 FALL CATALOGUE

A NEW LOOK

After many consultations with a diverse group of Indigenous authors, Elders, teachers, distributors, and bookstores, our family at Medicine Wheel Education have made the exciting decision to change our name to Medicine Wheel Publishing.

We will always strive to bring high quality educational books to classrooms and teachers. With that said, we also feel our purpose has grown beyond just the educational market. Our books can also be found in the trade book industry, libraries, etc.

Along with the new name comes a new logo to better match our identity and our purposes. Designed by Joshua Hunt, a talented Ojibway artist, Medicine Wheel Publishing's new logo speaks to who we are.

The sacred symbol of the Medicine Wheel represents unity and balance between the fours that exist in our world. The four seasons, the four elements, the four directions, the four peoples, the four types of education, etc. The goal of Medicine Wheel Publishing is to bring about greater understanding between people, especially in regards to Reconciliation.

Every feather of an eagle represents a sacred teaching. Every book published is a teaching being passed onto the reader.

The eagle wrapping our community and our logo is a symbol of the 7th sacred teaching — love. One of our authors speaks to how you need each of the other six sacred teachings in order to love. We strive everyday for that goal - to be loving.

walk in a good way. Each offering their own expertise, helps guide our process and system to ensure authenticity and quality.

In 2022, Medicine Wheel Publishing is now supported by an Indigenous Elders' and Educators' Council. Our Council is made up of knowledgeable members of the Indigenous community who advise our cultural practices and help us to

ABOUT

Medicine Wheel Publishing publishes culturally authentic Indigenous books, resources and tools specialized for moral and cultural education. Each book teaches a positive moral message designed to invite all children, youth and adults to engage and participate in culture with authenticity and respect.

Medicine Wheel Publishing is the publisher of many Indigenous authors as well as being the official publisher of Orange Shirt Day written by the Orange Shirt Society. Medicine Wheel Publishing has books in thousands of locations across Canada and the United States. In all of Medicine Wheel Publishing's books, every word and image has the explicit approval of the Indigenous storytellers and Elders connected to the story.

Through a relationship-based publishing program, Medicine Wheel Publishing offers a process that is culturally sound and authentic. Not only does Medicine Wheel Publishing protect cultural stories and authors, it offers our community of Indigenous authors a way to publish their oral stories without compromising themselves.

As of 2023, Medicine Wheel Publishing has over 40 books published and is distributed and represented by Publishers Group Canada for Canadian sales and Publisher's Group West in the United States. Both Strong Nations and Goodminds, largest Indigenous distributors for books in Canada, support our publishing program.

Medicine Wheel Publishing has been featured on CBC books, referenced in the House of Commons and appeared on national television. Medicine Wheel Publishing was founded by Teddy Anderson (Yeil S'aghi) who is multicultural and an adopted member of the Carcross Tagish First Nations which is a Tlingit community. Teddy is also a board member on the Association of Book Publishers of British Columbia.

Medicine Wheel Publishing acknowledges that we live and work on the unceded traditional territory of the Coast Salish People including the Sc'ianew people, the Lekwungen people and the T'Sou-ke people.

MINNOW: The girl who became part fish

A young Indigenous water protector named Minnow goes on an underwater journey; learning from our ocean-living relatives. When she returns to the surface, she gathers her community to help make a change.

This story is told in lyrical rhyme and helps children gain a better respect for Indigenous water and land protectors, the environment and world around them, and helps show children activism at an early age.

Willie Poll is a Métis author from the Robinson Huron Treaty Territory (Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada) and a proud member of the Metis Nation of Ontario. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in Indigenous studies and a Master of Arts in archaeology. She grew up with a close relationship to her Metis grandpa who filled her with stories that connected her to her ancestors and culture. Willie has worked in Indigenous education across the Nation for over 10 years. Her stories are her feelings, emotions, and her tribute to the youth in her life. Willie currently resides on Prince Edward Island as a guest on the traditional lands of the Wabanaki and Mi'kma'ki people; however, she lives a nomadic lifestyle and has had the opportunity to be a guest in many places across Turtle Island.

STORYTELLER SKYE: Teachings from My Ojibway Grandfather

Have you ever wondered why Rabbit has such long ears? Or why Raccoon is wearing a mask?

In this collection of funny and unique short animal stories, young Skye enlightens us in a number of Indigenous teachings, passed down to her from her Ojibway Grandfather.

Through her natural gift of storytelling, Skye encourages other children to embrace the art and become storytellers, too!

Booshooh My name is Skye. I live in a small First Nations community with my family and friends.
 Do you like storytelling? I love storytelling! It's my favourite part of the day.

Come sit with us. The stories I will share with you were told to me by my grandfathers. My grandfathers are amazing storytellers and have taught me well. If you sit and listen, I'm sure you'll enjoy these stories, too!

Each story has a special teaching, so remember to listen closely for it.

Lindsay King is an Ojibway storyteller and kindergarten teacher. She holds an ECE diploma, a bachelor's degree in Education, and a qualification in Special Education. Her knowledge and passion for natural medicines has now led her to also pursue nursing. As a child, Lindsay loved books and storytelling. Her most cherished memories from school were visits from Elders in the community sitting down with her and sharing stories. She's grateful for the privilege to now share stories with her daughter and her own students. Lindsay is a member of and resides on Pikangikum First Nation in Northern Ontario, Canada.

MEDICINE WHEEL WORKBOOK: FINDING YOUR HEALTHY BALANCE

Many Indigenous cultures on Turtle Island recognize the Medicine Wheel as a sacred symbol. By understanding the teachings of the Medicine Wheel, we can gain a deeper understanding of our holistic health.

Through a careful selection of teachings, followed by interactive activities, this book will encourage children to live well and find their healthy balance.

With his background in Indigenous Studies and his work as an Aboriginal Role Model in schools, he hopes to one day teach Indigenous Studies at the post-secondary level. Ren is passionate about his language and culture and enjoys learning new songs and traditional teachings from Elders and Knowledge Keepers in the Indigenous community. Born and raised on Lekwungen and WSÁNEĆ Territory in Victoria, B.C., Ren continues to live there today.

THE CORN CHIEF LE CHEF DU MAÏS

With the wizened old chief set to step down, young Linny dreams of being chosen as his replacement. As she struggles to pass his test, Linny learns with the help of her family what it really takes to become chief...in the most unexpected way.

This story is told with the help of traditional corn husk dolls. Corn dolls protect the home, livestock, and personal wellness of the maker and their family. Corn husk dolls have been made in some Indigenous cultures since the beginning of corn agriculture more than one thousand years ago, and continue to be made today.

Juliana Armstrong, a Teacher of Anishnaabemowin Language & Culture first became an artist after growing up watching her Mother and Gokmis crafting. The natural world around her as well as carrying her children during pregnancy have inspired most of her work. With great appreciation for the Ojibway Culture and Language, it is important for her to share her gifts such as art. Raised on Christian Island, she is a member of and resides in Nipissing First Nation, Ontario.

MEET YOUR FAMILY/ GIKENIM GINIIGI'IGOOG

Mother Earth, we come from her, we go to her, without her we wouldn't be here, she gives all of us life and because of her, we are all one family. In almost all segments of Indigenous life, we speak of Mother Earth, Father Sky, Grandfather Sun, and Grandmother Moon. Meet Your Family is a rhythmic poem that will enlighten readers on how to view these important figures while sharing a greater concept of seeing the world as our natural family. Presented in both English and Ojibwe, an additional softcover book in Ojibwe is included inside this hardcover book.
